

Maps are never neutral.

#sotmus

@thebestsophist

"Tools often redefine a problem.... [T]echnologies are developed and used within a particular social, economic, and political context. They arise out of a social structure, they are grafted on to it, and they may reinforce it or destroy it, often in ways that are neither foreseen nor foreseeable.

–Ursula Franklin, The Real World of Technology

